

Hello, My name is Adam. I am a junior level web developer based in the New York area. I know I don't quite have the experience quantity outlined in your listing, however I am a fast and determined learner, and I thought I would link you to my resume in the event that you may also be looking for someone like me. I look forward to hearing from you, and would love any advice you may have to offer me for this position, and for a novice web developer. Thank you for your time and consideration.

~Adam